JOSIAH RAMOS

The Columbia Guide to the Latin American Novel Since 1945 Plaza y Janes Editores Colombia s.a. Este libro contiene profecías para el mundo, para el continente americano y sobre todo, para todos aquellos que están tratando de borrar a Dios. Que están tratando de borrar su nombre, y nos dice, lo que Él va a hacer con ellos. Profecías en donde una vez más Dios demuestra, que Él no está ciego ni sordo. Que todo lo ve y todo escucha. Empezaré por decirles que mi infancia fue algo extraña, ya que desde muy niña veía y escuchaba cosas, y no había quien me las explicara. Así pasé mi niñez sin saber qué era lo que me pasaba.

La hermosa Silvana, rechazada por la sociedad por causas ajenas a la suya, abandona Azerbaiyán. Ella migra a Kenia, donde se enamora de un hombre al que ve como la respuesta a sus oraciones. Pero su nuevo esposo, Mark, no es el hombre con el que ella pensó que se estaba casando. Casi en ningún momento, él le quita el alma y el cuerpo, dejándola golpeada y más sola que nunca. En su desesperación por alejarse, ella comienza a creer que un cuchillo bien hundido puede marcar la diferencia entre la libertad y una vida de más abuso, o peor. Ella debe tomar una decisión que cambiara su vida para siempre. ¿Lo usara para detener las acciones de un monstruo, o elegirá otro camino?

In the early 1870s, Hubert H. Bancroft and his assistants set out to record the memoirs of early Californios, one of them being eighty-three-year-old Don Jose Maria Amador, a former Forty-Niner during the California Gold Rush and soldado de cuera at the Presidio of San Francisco. Amador tells of reconnoitering expeditions into the interior of California, where he encountered local indigenous populations. He speaks of political events of Mexican California and the widespread confiscation of the Californios' goods, livestock, and properties when the United States took control. A friend from Mission Santa Cruz, Lorenzo Asisara, also describes the harsh life and mistreatment the Indians faced from the priests. Both the Amador and Asisara narratives were used as sources in Bancroft's writing but never published themselves. Gregorio Mora-Torres has now rescued them from obscurity and presents their voices in English translation (with annotations) and in the original Spanish on facing pages. This bilingual edition will be of great interest to historians of the West, California, and Mexican American studies.

Este libro va de preguntas y respuestas educativas inevitables, aquellas que dan sentido y eficacia a la singular profesión de educar desde la escuela. Resume el cóctel básico de incertidumbres, saberes, innovaciones y bagajes de la profesión de educar, de educar en instituciones como la escuela, pensadas para educar enseñando. Hacer de maestro es hacerse preguntas sobre el mundo, provocar que el alumnado se las plantee y encontrar juntos las respuestas posibles. Hacer de maestro es vivir en la interrogación curiosa. Se interroga sobre el cielo para que los niños se pregunten sobre la luna y con ellos trata de saber qué pasa si el sol deja de iluminar la tierra. Enseña para que puedan tener el placer que el propio maestro o maestra tiene cuando descubre y aprende. El oficio de maestro tiene como tarea abrir puertas a aquello que es desconocido para los niños y niñas, sirve para hacer posible que se construyan como personas. No sirve cualquiera. Valen para ejercer la profesión las personas creativas, que aceptan ser puestas en crisis por sus alumnos, quieren cambiar la escuela porque la sociedad cambia, aprenden a ponerse en la piel de la infancia y la adolescencia, aspiran a que sea posible un mundo más justo. Este libro trata de ordenar los sueños jóvenes de quienes comienzan a ejercer de maestros, intenta avivar el rescoldo apasionado de quienes están en el oficio hace años, permite que las familias descubran por qué cada día se fían de dejar a las criaturas en sus manos.

This book focuses on the New Chilean Narrative published in the historically significant decade of the 90s by a group of writers belonging to the Generation of the 80s. The analysis of selected texts by Ana Maria del Rio, Diamela Eltit, Guadalupe Santa Cruz, Jaime Collyer, Ramon Diaz Eterovic, Gonzalo Contreras, and Alberto Fuguet explores the literary strategies by which these writers present literary imageries of deception that question the post-dictatorial order in Chile. The concept of imageries of deception alludes to literary motifs that represent a critical view of a Chilean contemporary reality whose source can be traced to the Pinochet dictatorship and its ideological aftermath. The imageries of deception question the dominant myths that sustain Chilean post-dictatorial society, and remember the nation's ideological conflicts of the past three decades. As cultural spaces where memory resists the dominant will to deceptively erase the past, the narrative of the 90s reveals the enduring and debilitating impact of a dictatorship successfully disguised as the current neo-liberal democracy.

This Handbook brings together essays from an impressive group of well-established and emerging scholars from all around the world, to show the many different types of violence that have plagued Latin America since the pre-Colombian era, and how each has been seen and characterized in literature and other cultural mediums ever since. This ambitious collection analyzes texts from some of the region's most tumultuous time periods, beginning with early violence that was predominately tribal and ideological in nature; to colonial and decolonial violence between colonizers and the native population; through to the political violence we have seen in the postmodern period, marked by dictatorship, guerrilla warfare, neoliberalism, as well as representations of violence caused by drug trafficking and migration. The volume provides readers with literary examples from across the centuries, showing not only how widespread the violence has been, but crucially how it has shaped the region and evolved over time.

La excusa: El diario de un profeta Greenwood Publishing Group

This collection of essays derives from a conference on Violence, Culture and Identity held in St Andrews in June 2003. It is a contribution to the understanding of representations of violence in Latin American narrative. The collected essays are dedicated to the study of the problematic history of violence as a means of 'civilizing' the region: violence used by dictatorial regimes to eradicate the collective memory of their actions; violence as a result of the history of marginalizing segments of the population; sexual violence as an attempt at complete control of the victim. The essays establish a clear link between historical, political and literary constructs spanning the past five hundred years of Latin American history. Close readings of political texts, historical documents, prose, poetry and films employ identity theories, postcolonial discourse, and the principles of mimetic and sacrificial violence. The volume adds to the ongoing critical investigation of the relationship between Latin American history and narrative, and to the key role of representations of violence within that narrative tradition.

The Martin Chronicles McFarland

At the heart of crime fiction is an investigation into an act of violence. Studies of the genre have generally centered on the relationship between the criminal and the investigator. Focusing on contemporary crime fiction from the Spanish-speaking world, this collection of new essays explores the role of the victim. Contributors discuss how the definition of "victim," the nature of the crime, the identification of the body and its treatment by authorities reflect shifting social landscapes, changing demographics, economic crises and political corruption and instability.

Radical Justice investigates the convoluted relationship between memory and justice in Spain and the Southern Cone as it is portrayed in political documentaries and detective fiction from Spain and the Southern Cone. It argues that the possibility of achieving justice in these regions lies beyond market and State and is yet to come. This book appeals to a wide range of scholars, ranging from national literature and film specialists of Argentina, Chile, and Spain, to philosophers and students of ethics, human rights, and questions of justice.

Una entrañable novela sobre el tránsito de la infancia a la juventud, protagonizada por una soñadora chica de catorce años, un apuesto joven y su fascinante profesor. Margherita tiene catorce años y está a punto de embarcarse en una experiencia tan mágica como temida: la secundaria. En los pasillos del instituto, fascinantes y amenazantes, se forjan amistades y se encuentran las miradas que despiertan nuevos sentimientos. Pero entre las cuatro paredes de su habitación, Margherita experimenta el vértigo de lo desconocido y tan solo el calor de su entrañable abuela, su hermano pequeño y sus adorados padres le ofrece la protección y el valor que necesita para enfrentarse al incierto futuro. Hasta que un día recibe un mensaje de su padre donde le anuncia que se va de casa. El abismo se abre y Margherita se siente caer al vacío. Todavía no sabe que la madurez se conquista a través del dolor, como la perla nace en la ostra al defenderse del ataque de un depredador. Ni siquiera los sabios consejos ni los refranes sicilianos de su abuela, su fiel confidente, serán ahora suficientes para arrancarla de su tristeza. De pronto, su nueva amistad con Marta, una chica muy entusiasta, cobrará un insospechado valor así como las lecciones de su profesor de lengua, un hombre que, aunque también debe enfrentarse a sus propias dudas y miedos, logrará despertar en Margherita nuevas pasiones y sueños. Pero será el vínculo con Giulio, un alumno de cuarto, de ojos de hielo y negrísimo pelo que se convertirá en su primer y gran amor, lo que hará reaccionar a Marguerita y finalmente la empujará a la búsqueda de su padre. Una historia sugerente y sensible que nos invita a vivir la intensidad del amor verdadero y la belleza de los sueños más puros

The negros congos of Panama's Caribbean coast are a unique cultural manifestation of Afro-Hispanic contact. During Carnival season each year, this group reenacts dramatic events which affected black slaves in colonial Panama, performs dances and pantomimes, and enforces a set of ritual laws' and punishments'. A key component of congo games is a special dialect, the hablar en congos, which is employed by a subset of the congos in each settlement. The present study investigates the congo dialect from a linguistic point of view along two dimensions. The first involves deliberate phonetic, syntactic, and semantic distortion as part of the overall spirit of burlesque and ridicule that surrounds Panamanian Carnival. The second is the retention of earlier, partially creolized Afro-Hispanic language forms which may still be extracted from contemporary congo speech. These Afro-Hispanic vestiges are of key importance to monogenetic theories of Afro-Romance creolization as Panamanian congo speech provides examples of unique creolized Spanish.

Latin American Mystery Writers Routledge

In this expertly crafted, richly detailed guide, Raymond Leslie Williams explores the cultural, political, and historical events that have shaped the Latin American and Caribbean novel since the end of World War II. In addition to works originally composed in English, Williams covers novels written in Spanish, Portuguese, French, Dutch, and Haitian Creole, and traces the profound influence of modernization, revolution, and democratization on the writing of this era. Beginning in 1945, Williams introduces major trends by region, including the Caribbean and U.S. Latino novel, the Mexican and Central American novel, the Andean novel, the Southern Cone novel, and the novel of Brazil. He discusses the rise of the modernist novel in the 1940s, led by Jorge Luis Borges's reaffirmation of the right of invention, and covers the advent of the postmodern generation of the 1990s in Brazil, the Generation of the "Crack" in Mexico, and the McOndo generation in other parts of Latin America. An alphabetical guide offers biographies of authors, coverage of major topics, and brief introductions to individual novels. It also addresses such areas as women's writing, Afro-Latin American writing, and magic realism. The guide's final section includes an annotated bibliography of introductory studies on the Latin American and Caribbean novel, national literary traditions, and the work of individual authors. From early attempts to synthesize postcolonial concerns with modernist aesthetics to the current focus on urban violence and globalization, The Columbia Guide to the Latin American Novel Since 1945 presents a comprehensive, accessible portrait of a thoroughly diverse and complex branch of world literature.

The Routledge Handbook of Violence in Latin American Literature Aris and Phillips Hispanic Cla Investigating Identities: Questions of Identity in Contemporary International Crime Fiction is one of the relatively few books to date which adopts a comparative approach to the study of the genre.

This collection of twenty essays by international scholars, examining crime fiction production from over a dozen countries, confirms that a comparative approach can both shed light on processes of adaptation and appropriation of the genre within specific national, regional or local contexts, and also uncover similarities between the works of authors from very different areas. Contributors explore discourse concerning national and historical memory, language, race, ethnicity, culture and gender, and examine how identity is affirmed and challenged in the crime genre today. They reveal a growing tendency towards hybridization and postmodern experimentation, and increasing engagement with philosophical enquiry into the epistemological dimensions of investigation. Throughout, the notion of stable identities is subject to scrutiny. While each essay in itself is a valuable addition to existing criticism on the genre, all the chapters mutually inform and complement each other in fascinating and often unexpected ways. This volume makes an important contribution to the growing field of crime fiction studies and to ongoing debates on questions of identity. It will therefore be of special interest to students and scholars of the crime genre, identity studies and comparative literature. It will also appeal to all who enjoy reading contemporary crime fiction.
