International Marketing, 18th Edition

Oxford University Press, USA

Transnational Marketing and Transnational Consumers are becoming increasingly common in today's globalizing and fast moving world of business. This book presents a fresh perspective focusing on the transnational character of organizations and firms while underlining the importance of the transnationality of marketing strategies for success. At the same time, it introduces the novel concepts of Transnational Consumers and Transnational Mobile Consumers which take into account the increasing human mobility and its implications for marketing success. This book gives flesh to the ever popular shorthand "glocal" referring to strategies thinking globally but acting locally. This is the reality of current business environment where the norm is fast mobility of goods, services, finance, and consumers. Transnational Mobility of Consumers is of increasing importance for understanding transnational marketing. Prof. Ibrahim Sirkeci's new book, Transnational Marketing and Transnational Consumers, deals with this important issue in an excellent way. The book is highly recommendable for both academics and practitioners in International Marketing. Svend Hollensen University of Southern

Bachelor Thesis from the year 2012 in the subject Business economics - Marketing, Corporate Communication, CRM, Market Research, Social Media, grade: 1.7, University of Applied Sciences Essen, course: Analysis of Cultural Differences and their Effects on Marketing Products in the United States of America and Germany with a Focus on Cultural Theories of Hall and Hofstede, language: English, abstract: This thesis aims at analysing cultural differences and their effect on marketing products internationally. The United States of America and Germany are used to exemplify this issue. Today's science provides numerous approaches to making cultural differences visible and tangible. All of these solutions and dimensions give companies, and people in general, a guide to becoming aware of and understand differences and how to cope with them appropriately.

Trompenaars, a famous consultant for intercultural communication, uses the allegory of a fish and its habitat, water, to explain the characteristics of culture: "A fish only discovers its need for water when it is no longer in it."² Accordingly, culture can be seen as the substance that surrounds a human being and makes him unable to distinguish between different and normal.

Therefore, this thesis uses the cultural theories of Edward T. Hall and Geert Hofstede, who both developed approaches to cultural differences by using either a four- or five-dimensions model. These cultural dimensions will be applied to the special circumstances and conditions which a marketer has to deal with in the United States and Germany and thus draws connections between those two different fields of science. As already mentioned in section 1.1, cultural differences play an important role in today's international marketing. It is therefore important to examine if and how cultural differences, according to Hall and Hofstede, affect parts of the marketing mix for companies selling products in the United States as well as in Germany. The following questions can help to identify the necessary steps: What cultural differences, in both the United States and in Germany, could have an impact on marketing the products of companies selling in those countries? What impact do cultural differences have on parts of the marketing mix? Which adaptations should marketers make to their marketing mix due to the cultural differences? Is standardisation a successful method in both international markets? The answers should help the marketer make the right choice between adapting products to local circumstances or selling and marketing the same product all around the world. This thesis will attempt to answer these questions by applying the above-mentioned cultural theories, and will provide suggestions for how companies from the USA or Germany should conceive parts of their marketing mix. It will further provide examples of culture-related marketing efforts.

The internationalization of the human society and mainly of the economy will continue. It will create threats but also big opportunities to most companies. This is where the book makes its contribution, putting forward suggestions for medium-sized companies to become a winner of internationalization. After a comprehensive introduction to internationalization and to strategic planning, concrete recommendations are made: The book first looks at going international for new markets. Then it shows how to develop an internationalization strategy for production and sourcing. Finally strategic planning in an international company is explained. The book is aimed at company executives, master students and participants of EMBA programs. It is intended to serve as a support for developing successful strategies for going and being international.

Doing Business in Emerging Markets

Tata McGraw-Hill Education

International Marketing - An Asia Pacific Focus is a significant overhaul of the original Kotabe and Helsen Global Marketing Management text. The intended audience of this Asia Pacific adaptation is undergraduate students studying International Marketing in Australia and New Zealand. The text aims to prepare the student to become an effective international marketing manager, overseeing international marketing activities in an increasingly competitive environment. A strong theoretical and conceptual foundation of international and global marketing perspectives is provided through the use of 'real world' examples of small to medium sized enterprises (SME's) and multinational corporations (MNC's) operating in the Asia Pacific region. International marketing is presented from an interdisciplinary, cross-functional perspective, giving students an appreciation of all aspects of international business operations and how they interface with marketing. A key underlying theme of the text is that while it may not be possible for all firms in the Asia Pacific region to market their products and services on a truly global scale, all firms that operate in any international market place need to understand and be aware of competition from both local SME's and MNC's that are increasingly attempting to operate globally. Part 1: International marketing environment Part 2: Analysing international marketing opportunities Part 3: Developing international marketing strategy Part 4: Trends in global marketing International Marketing McGraw Hill Providing coverage of the issues which define marketing in the world today, this title covers long-standing topics, integrates and draws on new and existing theoretical insights from other management disciplines including services marketing, knowledge management, relationship marketing, e-commerce and e-business and corporate social responsibility.

Transnational Marketing and Transnational Consumers Springer Science & Business Media

International Marketing addresses global issues and describes concepts relevant to all international marketers, regardless of their international involvement.

Notwithstanding the extent of global perspective that firms may have, they are affected by the competitive activity in the global marketplace. It is this perspective that the authors bring into this edition of the text. The text focuses on the strategic implications of competition in different markets. The environmental and cultural approach to international marketing permits a truly global orientation. Thus the reader's horizon is not limited to any specific nation but the text provides an approach and framework for identifying and analyzing the important cultural and environmental uniqueness of any nation or global region. Salient Features: ✓ 10 Indian cases included in the book ✓ New sections on negative impact of new communication tools, intellectual property rights in the international context, Brexit, inventive international negotiation etc. ✓ Thoroughly updated data, text, pictures and exhibits across the chapters ✓ More than 100 new academic articles and their findings integrated and cited across the chapters A Strategic Approach to World Markets Springer Science & Business Media Poised at the dawn of the Asian Century, innovation in international marketing continues to cut through the turbulence of our economic climate. This fourth Asia-Pacific edition of International Marketing is thoroughly revised to capture the cutting edge developments in international marketing, while retaining the integrity of Masaaki Kotabe's theoretical underpinning. Undergraduate students using this text as core resource will be equipped with the tools to become an effective international marketing manager. Armed with an understanding of how social media, ethics and sustainability are impacting the Asia-Pacific international marketing mix, students will draw on the interdisciplinary, cross functional approach to gain insight into all aspects of international business operations and the interface they have with marketing. The text provides detailed coverage of international marketing at all levels: from the SME primarily engaged in importing and exporting activities country by country through to larger organisations striving to coordinate their international marketing activities regionally and globally. A key underlying theme of the text is that while it may not be possible for all firms in the Asia-Pacific region to market their goods and services on a truly global scale, all firms that operate in any international marketplace need to understand and be aware of competition from both the local SMEs and the larger MNCs that are increasingly attempting to operate globally. In an increasingly competitive and global market, the fourth Asia-Pacific edition of International Marketing integrates fifteen new and dynamic end-of-chapter case studies to give students the knowledge, context and confidence to be a successful international marketing professional. 15 Dynamic new cases feat.
