The fundamental mathematical tools needed to understand machine learning include linear algebra, analytic geometry, matrix decompositions, vector calculus, optimization, probability and statistics. These topics are traditionally taught in disparate courses, making it hard for data science or computer science students, or professionals, to efficiently learn the mathematics. This self-contained textbook bridges the gap between mathematical and machine learning texts, introducing the mathematical concepts with a minimum of prerequisites. It uses these concepts to derive four central machine learning methods: linear regression, principal component analysis, Gaussian mixture models and support vector machines. For students and others with a mathematical background, these derivations provide a starting point to machine learning texts. For those learning the mathematics for the first time, the methods help build intuition and practical experience with applying mathematical concepts. Every chapter includes worked examples and exercises to test understanding. Programming tutorials are offered on the book's web site.

Routledge
Timothy T. Williams, Jr. is a leading national expert on police procedure and use of force. He has over 29 years of active law enforcement experience and over 40 years of experience working in the Criminal Justice System. Inside this book you'll get a sneak peak into Mr. William's extensive expert experience. Mr. Williams proudly served in the Los Angeles Police Department as a detective, ultimately ascending to the rank of Senior Detective Supervisor and retiring from the elite Robbery-Homicide Division. Mr. Williams is currently the founder and CEO of T.T. Williams, Jr. Investigations Inc., a company based in Los Angeles, California, that provides industry-leading expertise in cases throughout the United States related to police procedure, use of force, and wrongful convictions. Since the launch of his consultancy practice in 2003, he has provided expert testimony in more than 200 cases and analysis of over 1,200 cases, including several landmark cases such as the "Grim Sleeper" death penalty trial in Los Angeles and wrongful conviction cases such as the "Englewood Four" out of Chicago, Illinois. Most notably, Williams' expert analysis in the wrongful murder conviction of Kash D. Register helped to lead to the largest reported settlement, at that time, in an individual civil rights case in the history of Los Angeles, totaling $16.7 million in restitution. Williams has been hired by some of the most recognizable names in law including The Innocence Project, The Cochran Firm, Carl Douglas, Mark Geragos, and Thomas Mesereau. Tim Williams, Jr. is an Oakland, California, native and has completed his required undergraduate Criminal Justice studies at California State University Los Angeles. He taught at Los Angeles City College in the Administration of Justice Department and is a guest lecturer at various legal and professional organizations. Mr. Williams consistently appears as an expert and contributor on various network, cable, and radio programs including 20/20, Good Morning America, CNN, CBS News, Fox News, and Inside Edition. Mr.

Williams has numerous accolades and he is a nationally sought after speaker regarding police procedure, use of force, and wrongful conviction cases. In this book, you'll discover a deep dive on police procedure unlike anything you've ever read before.
