the reader. Similarly, the clinician has only one chance to make a first impression on the patient who has experienced domestic and/or sexual abuse, such that the patient has the confidence to disclose what has happened to her. . She or he may have taken months or years before feeling able to speak about what has happened, so it is essential that they experience a sympathetic, non-judgemental response from the clinician. Descriptions of the positive effects of an empathetic and non-judgemental responses have been given by two female doctors who themselves sought help following sexual violence and domestic abuse, respectively.^{1, 2} This positive response also has the effect of validating the patient's experience of abuse. This chapter aims to describe the magnitude of the problem of domestic and sexual violence and abuse, and cover the important aspects of the initial contact between the clinician and the patient"-- Provided by publisher. Studies in Operations Management John Wiley & Sons Contingent valuation is one of the means of incorporating socio-environmental considerations in cost-benefit analysis. The authors of this book have examined environmental valuation methods through the lens of cost-benefit analysis focused on three case studies in Japan: public parks, a bay wetland, and a recreational theme park. With implications for the world at large, the findings presented here serve as a valuable source of information on Japanese behavior regarding the valuation of environmental goods. New, alternative approaches and guidelines for cost-benefit analysis in the public and private spheres also are discussed. This volume makes an important addition to the library of all researchers and other scientists in the fields of environmental science and environmental economics. disbursed, the cost of operations, profitability, and the financial sustainability of the projects. This study argues that these methods are quite restrictive since none of them reflect the perceptions of poor people concerning the effectiveness of such projects. Development agencies such as GOs and NGOs have never been compared on the basis of service delivery effectiveness (a process-based comparison); nor have they ever been compared on the basis of their relative contribution to raising the living standards of the poor (an outcome-based comparison). Both types of comparison are crucial to poverty reduction. The main reason behind the absence of such comparisons is the unavailability of the appropriate parameters that could be used for such analysis. For the process-based comparison, this study develops and validates a two-dimensional multi-item service delivery effectiveness scale through convergent, discriminant and nomological validity. The scale captures different aspects of effectiveness in the delivery of services. These aspects are termed the 'credibility dimension' and the 'focus towards beneficiaries dimension' of service delivery in poverty-alleviation programs. For the output-based comparison, this study also develops and validates a 'multidimensional poverty model' to compare the effectiveness of GOs and NGOs in contributing to the economic, social, political, and cultural elements in the lives of the poor. The methodology is based on 930 samples collected from 12 districts and 107 randomly chosen villages in Bangladesh during September–December 2009. Manhattan Prep Publishing From a historical viewpoint, this political science study considers the hypocritical US policies toward Muslim countries and the ways in which they affect Muslims perception of the West. Islam is a religion of peace, but all over the world Muslims are often portrayed as terrorists. In Suppression of the Muslims, author Mohammed Ashraful Haque offers a consideration of the tense relationship between the United States and the Muslim world. He discusses, from a historical and political viewpoint, the hypocritical US policies toward Muslim countries, demonstrating the ways in which they affect Muslims perception of the West. Haque argues that the US policy has always been an attempt to weaken the Muslim countries. Suppression of the Muslims analyzes his theory against the backdrop of: - The misunderstanding between Islam and the West; - CIA activities in Muslim countries; - The breaking up of Pakistan; - Military dictators in Muslim countries; - Politics in South Asia; - The emergence of Bangladesh; and - The Iraq war. Haque provides an explanation of the background of Islam and Muslims and considers the ways in which they are often misunderstood and unfairly persecuted because of their beliefs, along with how this plays out in the rest of the world, especially the United States.
